

UNIVERSITÄT
BAYREUTH

think!

3rd Bayreuth Student Conference in Analytic Philosophy, 2018

The think! Conference for BA and MA philosophy students from throughout Europe creates an opportunity to share your philosophical work to a larger audience.

When? 22–24 June 2018

Where? Department of Philosophy, University of Bayreuth

For whom? BA and MA students throughout Europe who are studying Philosophy

What's it all about? All topics in analytic practical and theoretical philosophy

Who will be there? Two Keynote speakers:

Johanna Thoma, Department of Philosophy, Logic and Scientific Method, LSE London

Andrew Reisner, Department of Philosophy, University of Uppsala

Want to join in? Please send an abstract, together with a covering letter including your name, university, degree title, and contact information, to stud-phil-conf@uni-bayreuth.de by no later than 7 April 2018. The abstract will be the basis for a 30–45 minutes presentation, should be no longer than 600 words and free from all identifying information. Submissions will be peer-reviewed by the local organizing committee, including faculty members of the Department of Philosophy at the University of Bayreuth. The Department of Philosophy will also award the best abstract with a prize of €100. For further questions, please do not hesitate to get in touch with Benedict Guenther (benedict.guenther@uni-bayreuth.de) or Henri Scheidler (Henri.Scheidler@uni-bayreuth.de).

Need financial support? Limited travel and accommodation grants are available. Please contact the organizers for more information.

The Conference is supported by the Department of Philosophy and the Philosophy & Economics Programme, University of Bayreuth.